What if I receive a message as an exhibitor?

Once you are added to an Exhibitor booth as a team member, you have access to a shared inbox with all your organization's team members.

Messages in the inbox are generated when an attendee visits your booth and types a message into the "Talk to..." window.

For the attendee, the message appears within the booth as a 1:1 chat. For the exhibitor team, the message generates a notification in the platform and appears as a message in the exhibitor inbox.

What if I receive a message as an exhibitor?

- 1 To view your exhibitor inbox, click the chat bubble icon along the top menu.
- 2 Switch between your personal inbox and the exhibitor inbox by clicking on the dropdown box.
- 3 All exhibitors will see a red notification circle over the chat bubble icon after each new message.

i Note: once any exhibitor team member reads the message, the red notification circle disappear for the entire team

How to create Group chats?

The Group Chat feature gives Users the ability to engage in a discussion with up to 10 people. It also allows them to send messages, files, reactions, and even have Group video calls!

To create a group chat, click on the message icon to the right of "search a contact" then add the list of people from your contacts list you want to include in your group.

By default, the person creating the Group Chat is the Admin. This will give them the rights to:

- Add and remove members
- Rename the conversation
- Assign or demote other Admins
- End the conversation

Note: once any exhibitor team member reads the message, the red notification circle disappear for the entire team
